"THE FULNESS OF TIME." Dr. Campbell's Sermon at the

At the First Presbyterian church vesterday, Rev. R. F. Campbell preached from Galatians IV, 4:5:

But when the fulness of the time was com-God sent forth his son, made of a woman, mad-under the law, to redeem them that were mis-the law, that we might receive the adoption a sons."

Mr. Campbell said: "The text divides itself, naturally, into three beads; the weeks. time, the form and the purpose of the coming of Christ. As to the time, it is said in the text, 'When the fulness of it time was come, God sent forth his son We must remember that God's processor are slow processes, that to him a thou and years are but as a day. A Savior was promised to the race of men in the Garden of Eden, but 4,000 years, at the very lowest computation, passed before birth of Christ. But during all these years God was working towards this great end-working out his plan of redemption for fallen man. This preparation was made along three lines all converging towards one point, 'the full is of time.' These three lines were: t preparation of the gospel for man, th preparation of man for the gospel an the facilities for bringing the gospel and man together. To prepare the gospe for man, God set apart the descendants of one man, and revealed hims it unto them. He kept the lewish thee, the chosen people a separate nation. For this they were kept in bondage until they had become a nation in size, but without the laws, customs and institutions of a nation. Then Moses led them forth into the wilder-ness. Their country, Palestine, from its geographical situation, and the religion and national institutions sta kept them a pation separated from a the true religion might not be chake out by the tares of polytheism and heathen superstition. As a nation they ever looked forward to a Savior, a de-liverer. Moses, Joshua, the Judges were all deliverers and types of Jesus. In their religious rites, ceremonies and sacrifices were typified the divine sacrifice, the expiation of sin. They were preuliarly a religious nation and their problets and psalmists were preparing the gospe of the old testament under the Invite

In the meantime, God prepared man for the Gospel. Among the other notions different ways had been tried to satisfy the yearnings of the soul. Ritualism had been tried, and proved a tal-ure, art and philosophy had been track The Greeks brought art to, perhaps, the highest point it has ever attained, and their philosophers, Plato, Socrates Aristotle, studied and wrote, but still the Greek nation was given over to the grossest licentiousness. The eller Pinas sonked in the philosophy of the ages said: 'If there is a God be is unknownble, and the greatest gift to m in is the power to take his own life. The litera ture of the years just before the comme of Christ, all betokens a yearning for something higher and better. Still, there are men today who say, if you will give to men a high culture and sur-round them with beautiful things they will be good and happy. The bor-get that the experiment has been trial and failed. National unity had been tried among the Romans, who had per-haps the m st complete political syst, in ever known, and tailed. The Romans were sunken in cruelty and wickedness The dispersion of the lews, who were now colonized here and there among all the nations, setting up their synsg gues teaching the one God and making pros-lytes, helped to prepare the way; man was ready for the gospel, the 'funess of time had come.' But to embody the gospel a language was necessary and the beautiful Greek language, prepared through the ages of Greek calture and philosophy, and especially the dialect spoken at Alexandria, was ready to carry the gospel to all nations.

the son of God, but born of a woman that he might suffer the inhermon's of homanity, born under the law that he Let us 'stand fast, therefore, in the liber ty wherewith Christ hath made us free and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage."
